

International Institute of Information Technology, Hyderabad

Migrants and Migrations in Modern South Asia-HS3.305

Quiz 1

Date-03/02/2023

Max Time: 45 Minutes

Max Marks: 15 (3x5)

Instruction: Answer any three of the following five questions (approximately 300 words each)

1. How do the functionalist and historical-structural theories of migration differ from each other in their approaches to studying/explaining migration motivations? What are the limitations of each?
2. Discuss the temporal stages in the emergence of migration studies as a field and the thematic shifts in its foci.
3. Write a short note on the New Economics of Labour Migration (NELM) theory.
4. Giving two examples, explain how oral history has helped in the writing of more nuanced histories of various migratory experiences over time.
5. How do anthropologists approach the study of migration? What are the methods that they employ to understand both the process of migration and immigrant experiences in host societies?

→ push-pull
movement of capital
human capital.

countries & MNCs
are facilitating

→ larger forces

→ globalisation. countries & MNCs driven -